Media and educational activity

1. Viktor Lilčić Adams over the years, along with active field and cabinet research, devoted special attention to conveying and interpreting scientific information from archeology to the wider public. He firmly states that the answers to our current problems are in our own past and that if we carefully study human development through prehistory, antiquity and the Middle Ages, we will certainly recognize the causes of the inclinations and the falls of ancient cultures and civilizations. See some of the messages transmitted through written media in his Bibliography (numbers: 127, 140-144 and 148).

2. Viktor L. Adams held a number of educational lectures in elementary and secondary schools, in front of various groups of citizens throughout the Republic of Macedonia in towns and villages (the schools Orce Nikolov Skopje, Josip Broz Tito Skopje, Rade Jovčevski Korčagin, in Crnobuki, Podmol, in the municipalities Negotino, Kavadarci etc.)

3. As an assistant, assistant professor, associate professor and full professor, he organized a number of field study excursions with lectures on the ground throughout the Republic of Macedonia from 1988 until today.

4. Within the Skopje Summer Stage - on the open summer stage on the plateau in front of the Universal Hall in Skopje, in July and August 2011, he held four public lectures on the topics: - The quest for the vanished city; - Early antique Macedonian fortresses near Demir Kapija; - The ancient kingdom of Macedonia, the expansion of the Argeads; and the Expansion of the Antigonides.

The first support - donation was given by Mr. Trifun Kostovski, who broadly donated a LADA-NIVA terrain vehicle in 2000, which was used by V. L. Adams to perform active research until 2017.

Scientific research and studies on topics:

Ancient construction ceramics

From the research of the ancient ceramic construction elements, the master thesis of the professor Viktor Lilčić Adams PhD: Ancient Construction Ceramics in the Republic of Macedonia, Skupi, Stobi, Heraclea and Stibera, resulted which was presented on 09. 06. 1986 at the Faculty of Philosophy in Skopje : Prof. Dr. Blaga Aleksova PhD, Prof. Ivan Mikulčić PhD and Prof. Vera Bitrakova - Grozdanova PhD, published in 1986.

In the study he focused on: the development of different types and specific forms of building ceramics among the ancient peoples of the Middle East, Aegean, Hellas and Italy, then a review of this material in our country, identifying the forms, types and standards in our Roman city centers. Approximately 2,000 samples of 20 well-dated ancient buildings and more than a dozen tomb units were selected and processed, along with the original samples and obtained certain metrical, typological and other data, time parameters, standards and deviations. In addition, the general characteristics of masonry, masonry stages, material and the quality of the building in the first centuries of the new era in the towns Skupi, Stobi, Heraclea and Stibera, centers of the ancient civilization on the territory of the Republic of Macedonia, were evaluated.

Tomb and tombstone elements from the early Roman emperor period and from early Christianity

Viktor Lilčić Adams researched the early Christian vaulted tombs, as well as the tombs and tombstones from the Early Roman Empire on the territory of the Republic of Macedonia.

Architectural decorative sculpture

Viktor L. Adams began to explore stone architectural elements in 1983 through early Christian stone elements in the Middle Povardarje, but also the structural elements of temples and heroines in the villages of Tremnik and Barovo. In 1990, he decided to follow this matter on the entire territory of the Republic of Macedonia. So on March 16, 1990 he started intensive field research until 1999 when he completed his doctoral dissertation in the summer months, delivering it to the University of Belgrade on 10.09. 1999. He successfully presented it on 08.06.2000 in front of the commission: Prof. Aleksandra Cermanović Kuzmanović PhD (mentor), Prof. Aleksandar Jovanović PhD, Prof. Ivan Djordjević PhD and Prof. Stasa Babić PhD. The doctoral degree was verified by the Faculty of Philosophy in Skopje with the adoption of the Report by Prof. Vera Bitrakova Grozdanova PhD, Prof. Elica Maneva PhD and Prof. Kosta Adžievski PhD.

Within this topic, Viktor Lilčić Adams visited, researched and documented a number of sites. He published a number of scientific articles and as a result his monumental corpus of this highly representative and valuable material from the territory of the Republic of Macedonia arose. It was his two-volume study Architectural stone plastic in the Republic of Macedonia from the 1st to the 6th century AD, under the title Macedonian stone for the gods, Christians and life after life. On the impressive 1126 pages, three maps of the Republic of Macedonia, 6 boards graphic presentation of the typological evolution of the stone architectural elements (A3 format), he unveiled the enormously rich and attractive Macedonian cultural treasure with the architectural stone elements on the territory of the Republic of Macedonia from the three periods of the Ancient era: Early Antiquity, Early Imperial Roman period and Late Imperial Roman period

Early Christian basilicas

V. L. Adams, diligently researching architectural stone elements from a large number of early Christian basilicas, on the ground and especially in cabinet-study conditions, wrote a number of articles. He surpassed the documentary threshold by resolving to seek appropriate interpretations of the explanation, the understanding of the microcosm of the early Christian temple, apart from archeology also in the experiences and treasures of scientific disciplines such as, the Christian liturgy, the history of art, symbolism, and so on. So finally in 2003, he created the capital study Early Christian Church, Skopje 2003, 1-268, which was published later in English under the title Early Christian Cosmos, Skopje 2007. In these two studies, V. L. Adams succeeded comparing knowledge, to arrive at concrete interpretations of the forms of immovable and movable material culture, more specifically explaining the idea and significance of the plans and elevation parts of the early Christian basilicas in the contexts of the imagination of the ancient inhabitants of that time for the order of their earthly, celestial and aquatic environment.

Ancient numismatics

V. L. Adams has been preoccupied with ancient numismatics since 1990. He researched and elaborated Late Antique and Early Byzantine coins discovered in several old fortresses. But also within the framework of the early antique numismatics he dealt with the problem of coins with the inscription PAYONON, then with the newly discovered type of coin of historically unknown ruler Teutai, as well as with a large number of coins of Macedonian kings and early ancient cities Pela, Thessalonika, Amphipolis and so on.

Location of ancient and medieval towns and fortresses

1. Hypothesis for the location of Pelagonia, the capital of the Pelagonia Kingdom on the complex of archaeological sites Visoka, Staro Bonče and Pavla Čuka near Prilep villages Bonče, Kruševica, Podmol and Lopatica (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 131-132, 134 -137, 145, 156, 187-188, 194).

2. Hypothesis for the location of Link, the capital city of the Lynkestida Kingdom, at the site Gradište village Crnobuki, Bitola (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 163, 168).

3. Hypothesis for the location of Almana, the ancient Paionian city of the river Axij, at the site Gradishte village Kocilari, Gradsko municipality (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 160, 170-171).

4. Hypothesis for the location of Dostonei, an ancient Pelagonian town in Mariovo, at the locality Manastir St. Ilija, in the village of Peštani, the municipality of Prilep (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 128-129, 145).

5. A hypothesis for the location of Gavalarion, a medieval city in the Demir Hisar area, occupied by the Byzantine Emperor Andronicus III Paleolog in a year in the course of his conquering against the Serbs from the town of Bucinon to the town of Devrec. On the site Golemo Kale village Lopatica, municipality of Bitola. See Bibliography numbers 176, 177.

6. Hypothesis for the location of Tranupara, (city) from the Pottinger Map of the Stobi Diagonal Road for Pautalia (Kyustendil), (Bibliography of V.L.A. number: 47).

7. Hypothesis for the location of Uskana, the capital of Penestius (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 105, 106).

8. The annexation of the ancient kingdom of Paionia and conversion into a Macedonian area - Paionia's strategy, by the Macedonian king Philip V (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 174-175, 180, 186).

9. Hypothesis for the location of Pelagoniae fauces by T. Livy (Bibliography of V.L.A. number: 73-74).

Research on the ancient roads on the territory of the Republic of Macedonia

1. Reconstruction of the march of Alexander III of Macedonia in 335 BC. (Bibliography of V.L.A. number: 189).

2. The Egnatia Road - Via Egnatia (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 49, 157, 169, 172).

3. Diagonal Road - Via Diagonalis, Vardar Road - Via Axia and other ancient roads in Roman times (Bibliography of VLA number: 49).

4. Reconstruction of the ancient route from Audarist to Naples (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers: 133, 138, 139).

Research of the Early Byzantine Telegraph in the Republic of Macedonia

1. Central Povardarje signal system (Bibliography of V.L.A. numbers 190, 193)

2. Western system from Davina Kula, Kale Barovo, Kale Lenište Debrešte for Markovi Kuli Varoš (Bibliography of V.L.A. number: 197).

3. Signal connection Klepa, Dvorište - Markovi Kuli Varoš.

4. Signal connections: Klepa - Vidim, Kuklica - Zdravci Kamen Šlegovo and Klepa - Crni Vrv village Kalapetrovci (in preparation and partly number 161).

Polygeogenesis in the Republic of Macedonia

V. L. Adams shows his interest in the ancient kingdom of Macedonia, for the first time in the historical-numismatic study of the Kings of Ancient Macedonia and their coins in the Republic of Macedonia (as co-author of Nikola Sheldarov), Skopje 1994. Later in 1997 he published the results of his research at the northern border of the Kingdom of Macedonia in magazine Macdonald Heritage no. 4, as well as the results of the research of the conquering of the last Macedonian king Perseus of the Pentician city of Uskana in the Macedonian heritage no. 14 in 2000. In 2004, he initiated the scientific and research project “Ancient Kingdom of Macedonia in the Republic of Macedonia”, and published the report on the implementation of the Project in the issue of Macedonian Heritage no. 23 in Skopje in 2004.

The early antique cultural horizon of the Kingdom of Macedonia is not a major scientific interest of V. L. Adams, but it is the paleogenesis of the territory of the Republic of Macedonia. However, researching the Late Antique fortifications, numismatic material, stone architectural plastics, he simultaneously researched and documented old-Macedonian fortifications. It is precisely because of this, and also because of the open problem of the issue of where the ancient Kingdom of Macedonia stretched in the north, he decided, to deal with this topic in the coming years in a limited extent. Thus, he implemented the project through which he managed with team work to collect about 500 coins of ancient Macedonian kings, deposited in the Independent Museum Collection within the Faculty of Philosophy in Skopje. V. L. Adams published the results of these extensive and studious research in several articles (see Bibliography numbers: 105, 106, 121, 122, 128, 129, 145, 153, 154, 159, 174, 175, 160, 180, 186) and the preliminary study no. 189, The ancient Kingdom of Macedonia and the Republic of Macedonia, ed. Cultural Heritage Protection Office, Skopje 2015, 1-84 (with the co-authors I. Širtovski, V. Atanasov, V. Simonovski and F. Adžievski).

As early as in his student days, from 1975, V. L. Adams is particularly intensely interested in fieldwork research, firstly joining his professor I. Mikulčić at that time, mainly within the framework of the projects of the Faculty of Philosophy in Skopje: “Old towns and fortresses in the Middle Povardarje” and the “Medieval towns and fortresses in the Republic of Macedonia”, sometime until 1993 and later within the project “Late Antique Communications and Points in the Republic of Macedonia” (INI Skopje, 1996 -1998) in fruitful cooperation with the Head of the Project Prof. Kosta Adžievski PhD. In 1998, he founded the NGO Center for Archaeological Research, whereby he submitted the report for the implementation of the Project “Protection and safeguarding of the Cultural Heritage in the Republic of Macedonia”, CAR, Skopje 1999, 1-100 pp., a project that does not manage to receive funds. However, this report is the core and basic orbis around which V. L. Adams continues to act in the coming years, especially after his doctorate in 2000. Here I will note that V. L. Adams did not stop at any time with the intensive field research of the old towns and fortresses, from the very first moment when in the spring of 1975 he first climbed Kula above the village of Bulačani in Skopska Crna Gora, until, let's say 04. 11. 2018, when he brought out the anonymous iron age town on the site Mala Kostelnica, Aljinca, completely unknown in the literature. The result is really impressive. If by 2002 the Macedonian archaeological family knew about 500 fortified cities and fortifications, he doubled this figure. His personal list in 2012 recorded 1020 sites, some of which are indicative. In the period from 2012 to 2018, he excluded from the list primarily some unrealistic, according to his observation sites, entered in the toponym Kula and some other from the topographic sections, and pointed out about 900 sites. Although he loves to say that the total number of ancient towns and fortresses in the Republic is undoubtedly over 1000, given that large parts are covered with high forests and his specially trained teams discover one or more completely unknown fortifications each year. He devotedly and diligently explored a region by region and came to an impressive figure of 95% visit of old towns and fortresses. Today he presents a list of about 100 sites that will bring him closer to completing all civilization points on the territory of the Republic of Macedonia, although he can often say that as soon as the final is approaching, new and unknown towns and fortifications even from the first category, which were never registered anywhere, appear.

V. L. Adams practically succeeded with impressive physical and mental scientific research efforts to carry out a personal research observation on almost all Macedonian fortified sites and to produce the most comprehensive textual, photo and technical documentation for them.

Gradually, but persistently he upgraded the necessary research methodology in field and office research, and in recent years began to produce geo-referenced planimetry of the sites in the coordinate system from markings along the horizontal and vertical to 50, rarely 100 meters. This approach provides a document with wide application, primarily for the creation of the Archaeological Cadastre of the Republic of Macedonia, but also as a significant support in the protection of the sites, as well as for archaeological and touristic needs.

His goal is to present this material within a single Corpus of Old Towns and Fortresses in the Republic of Macedonia. According to the original idea, the material would follow the chronological order, by writing and publishing the first dozen volumes dedicated to the era of early antiquity, followed by a dozen volumes dedicated to the late antique era. Accordingly, he started in 2009, when he published the first volume of the Corpus entitled Lynkestida and Devriop, ed. Macedonian Civilization, Skopje 2009, 1-232. Already the following year, he continued with the region of the early Ancient Kingdom of Pelagonia, but unfortunately due to insufficient funds for the printing of the edition, as well as the need for the field researches of this noble matter, the Project lost its intensity in the coming years. In 2013, after being elected director of the Cultural Heritage Protection Office until 2017, his field research decreased with a percentage reduction on an annual basis.

In the period 2015-2016. Viktor L. Adams wrote a study of ancient towns and fortifications in the region of Skopje (Bibliography of V.L.A., No. 198, impressive 160 pages, in print).

It will not be wrong to point out that the ultimate life project of Prof. Viktor Lilčić Adams PhD represents the Corpus of Old Towns and Fortresses on the Territory of the Republic of Macedonia.
